WHAT'S A MACKINTOSH: es galeshes. In fact, to tell an Englishman that his waterproof coat or shoes were rubber would somewhat disconcert him. His Mack-intesh and his galoshes have never been associated in his thoughts as "rubbers." Charles Mackintosh, the inventor of the garments that bear his name, doubtless never dreamed of he "feather-weight" garments now so susnying, "Many heads are better those one." This collection—the best results of several manufacturers of Mackintoshes—is of equal interest to men and women and sons and daughters. For men there are the feather-weight coats at $1.08; those heavier, with rabber scams, $2.48. Another special sale attraction is the $2.98 cloth finish Mackintoshes offered at $2.98. The Money in Deposition's Banks,—Acting Secretary Nettleton says that the Government has no present necessity for any part of its funds now in depository lanks, but that doubtless within the next eight months part of the deposits will be required to be used in current business. The Government will call for; the money in installments and after giving reasonable notice of its intention to do so.

An Army Officer Wanter.—The Georgetown University will ask that an Army officer be detailed for duty there as an instructor in military science and tactics, under the law which was passed at the last session of Congress. No school or institution in the District of Columbia has ever had an Army officer as an instructor. The Columbia College some years ago endeavored to secure one, but was unsuccessful.

DRATTING EXAMINATIONS.—The Civil Service Commission has decided to allow residents of the District of Columbia to apply for the mechanical draughtsman examination to be held March 17, the ordinance examination to be held March 24, and all examinations for the Supervising Architect's Office; but they will be admitted only with the understanding that if there are enough successful competitors from outside the District those from the District will not be certified for appointment.

THE TREATY WELL SPOKEN OF .- The THE THEATY WELL SPOKEN OF.—The Brazilian mails yesterday brought to the State Department the newspapers of Rio de Janeiro containing the first announcement there of the reciprocity agreement between the United States and Brazil, and the decree of the President promulgating the treaty. The newspapers speak very favorably of the treaty. The decree referred to contains the following sentence: "Uron one point there exists no doubt. "Upon one point there exists no doubt, that the sgreement will be highly satisfactory to the Government of the United States, since it has for some time been warmly advocated by the press of that country, which is so well disposed toward us, and which grants us especial favors which are refused by the nations of Europe."

Digain or Ministra Swift.—Secretary Illaine last night received a cablegram automoting the sudden death of Minister John F. Swift at Tokio. Death was caused by heart disease. Mr. Swift was about 69 years of age and a Californian. He was for many years prominent in the politics of both his State and nation. He was at one time the candidate of the Republican party for the governorship of California. He was one of the three members of the commission which negotiated with China the treaty restricting the immigration of the natives of that country to the United States. He was a very warm friend of President Harrison, and was very prominently spoken of for a place in the latter's Cabinet. His appointment as Minister to Japan was made without anyone suggisting it to the President. Mr. Swift was a lawyer by profession and a very wealthy man. Europe.

Mr. Ingalls and Japan.—Those newspaper correspondents who no sooner do they see an important Government position vacant than they proceed to fill it out of hand have to-day appointed exsenator lugalls Minister to Japan to succeed Mr. Swift, deceased. Sometimes the correspondents referred to are a little bit previous. They certainly would seem to be so in this case. Mr. Ingalls would make a very good Minister to Japan, and doubtless would like the job. He would not have anything to do except pursue those literary studies of which he is so fond. But it must be remembered that Mr. Ingalls has got both a tongue and a pen, and that he is in a habit of keeping the rust off both. He has made some speeches in the Senate which were calculated to make Mr. Harrison wince, so pointedly and saccastically did they refer to the President. And then there is that letter that he wrote to the Kansas delegate to the last Republican Convention, in which he suggested with the relinement of cruelty that some "small man like Harrison, without a record" be nominated for the first place, and some "fellow" like William Walter Phelps, who could go into Wall street and capture campaigu boodle be made the second on the ticket. When these things are recalled the probability of Mr. Ingalls being made Minister to Japan vanishes like snow under a July sun. MR. INGALLS AND JAPAN,-Those new

As TO ABRITEATHON.—Nothing of course could be learned at the State Department to-day as to whether Secretary Blaine would accept the terms of arbitration set forth in the latest dispatch which he has received from Lord Salisbury in regard to the Bering Sea trouble. But that the outcome will be arbitration no one doubts. Mr. Blaine will, it is thought, endeavor to make some changes in the scheme which Lord Salisbury has embodied, but whether he is or not successful in that effort arbitration will ensue. The Cerric reporter to-day spoke to several members of Congress about the subject under discussion and they all expressed themselves as being much gratified at the prospect that a peaceful solution

Minister Swiff's Remains.—While no action in the matter has been taken it is probable that a U.S. man-of-war will be ordered to bring back to America the remains of Mr. Swift, the late minister to Jajan, who died at Tokio last night. One of the vessels now in the Asiatic squadron will be selected for this duty.

MR. FARQUIAR AND THE POSTORICE DE-PARTMENT.—Ex-Representative Farquiar of New York went over to New York City last night at the suggestion of Postmaster-General Wanamaker to confer with the General Wamamaker to confer with the steamship owners there with a view, under the Shipping bill passed at the last session of Congress, to improving the mail facilities between that city and South America and also lietween San Francisco and Australia. Mr. Farquhar is not in any way connected with the Government service, and the mission upon which he went to New York suggests the possibility of his being made the incumbent of the new office created in the Postoffice Department, that of Assistant Postmaster General.

Brother Hall is not unlike Napoleon in some respects.

True, he is a few shades darker than the great French General, but all the same, being clothed with certain authority, he thinks be can rule the universe. He will find out his mistake before many moons. Brother Hall rules over the fishermen and fisherwomen of this town as well as over those of Baltimore and other cities.

Some time ago Grace Tabernacle of this city held a special meeting. It was largely attended and there were some breezy speeches. Even the Supreme Ruler was roasted by some of the orators. Some tattletale wrote to the Supreme Ruler and informed him that at the meeting in question he had come in for a few ancomplimicary remarks. Thereupon Brother Italigot mad. He at once sent a communication to Mrs. E. W. Webster, the secretary of Israel, suspending her lodge. He gave as his reason "that it was in violation of the rules and regulations of the supreme order to hold a special meeting without a permit is given by the Supreme Ruler."

Mrs. Webster and all the other members of Grace take issue with Mr. Hall on this point and deny that he has the right to suspend a lodge for the reasons given by him. There is certainly no warrant for it in the constitution and by-laws of the order.

A Currie reporter called af the resi-in the constitution and by-laws of the order.

A Crime reporter called at the residence of Secretary Webster this afternoon. She is a pleasant-faced, intelligent woman, and talked interestingly and earnestly on the subject of the suspension. "We are not very much worried over this unpleasant affair," she said, "but we are determined to have our rights, We have not, and do not intensi, to violate any of the fundamental laws of our noble order. To-morrow evening at 7:30 o clock we shall hold a mass meeting at No. 346 Pennsstrania avenume for the purpose of protesting against Supreme Ituler Half's conduct. The estate on G street, between Sixth and Seventh streets northwest, represented by Frank Conger, and the Cyclorama building, at the intersection of Fifteenth street, Ohio avenue and C street, seem to be the favorite locations, with the chances in favor of the former.

Postmaster Sherwood said to-day that the owners of the building now occupied by the City Postoflice were auxious to retain their present tenants, and with that idea in view they have submitted plans to the Postmaster which provide for temporary headquarters in the buildings adjoining while the old structure is being added to by extending the building line over the reservation fronting on the south side of Louisiana avenue, if the Commissioners will consent to the arrangemmissioners will consent to the arrange ent. those who have to cross them after nightfall.

They are but dimly lighted and the bars or gates are seldom let down after night. Traffic, of course, is light on those streets at night, but a good many people on foot cross and they have to look out for themselves, for nothing is done for their protection from passing trains.

It would be a vast help if these crossings were lighted by electric are lamps. Four at each crossing would make it light as day and correspondingly safe.

Captain Lusk, who has charge of these, said to The Chert to-day that the District Government cannot put in electric lights, the law now forbidding the stringing of overhead wires and congress having taken charge of the underground business.

The Seventh-street crossing will soon be lighted by electricity, that having been provided for. All that can be done in regard to the crossings west of Seventh street is to put in more gas lamps where they are needed.

It would be well for the residents of that part of South Washington to petition the Commissioners for more light at these places. They might also ask the railroad companies to have the gates let down at night.

MR. MILLS' CHANCES FOR THE SPEAK ERSHIP CONSIDERED.

The Office of the Supervising Architec Swamped With Work-Representa-tive Stone's Pathetic Plea-The Kentucky Constitutional Convention-Representative Wilson's Opinion of It Senator Pettigrew Opposed to Reciprocity With Canada.

Nearly all of the Speakership candidate here left town, but they did not take away with them all their friends. Not much. The following of the ambitious gentlemen who desire to fill the great office once held by Clay, Polk, Colfax, Blaine, Randall, Carlisle and Reed are just as numerous about the hotels now as they were a week ago, when the Fifty-first Congress was in its death throes.

An admirer and supporter of Mr. Mills halled The Carrie reporter this morning, and taking him aside said, with an air of confidence: ontidence:
"I have made a careful canvass of the next House, and I find that my friend, Roger Quaries Mills of Corsicana, will have an easy victory—not on the first ballot—but he will lead all competitors on the first, and on the second or third will walk off with the gavet that Tom Reed wielded with such vigor-and the rest scattering.

On the second or third ballot Mr. Mills will be declared the winner."
Another gentleman, who is by no means a partisan, does not agree with Mr. Mills friend that the latter will have plain and easy sailing. On the contrary this gentleman, like the conservative person that he is, says it is anybody's fight, and it is going to be an interesting battle all round. He said:

"I have been doing some figuring on the Speakership, and it is my opinion that Crisp and Mills will have about the same number of votes to start with. Springer and McMillin will have about the same number, and Bynum and Hount a few votes each.

"After one or two ballots have been had it is probable that there will be a break to one or the other leaders, or maybe the lightning may strike one of the tailenders, or, perhaps, some name not yet mentioned will be spring on the caurus, and there be a stampede to him that will result in his selection. It is all nonsense to talk about any one at this time having a sure thing on the Speakership of the Fifty-second Congress."

In the way of putting up public buildings the Government Architects office was further behind before the work of the last session of Congress had been accomplished than ever before. So many new buildings were appropriated for at that session that the office of the Government Architect is now simply swamped. It will be years before daylight is seen. The architect is being appealed to by Congressmen and other people interested in the buildings to commence work upon that particular sdiffice which is to be finers. He throws up his hands and says that he cannot. Representative Stone of Missouri the other day, after a very long and ardent, but ineffectual, plea for the building at Springfield, in his State, finally in despate thus imported Mr. Windrim:

"I must have something to show to my constituents. Can't you at least draw up the plans and specifications for a reliar to the buildings, or what would be better. can't you dig a hole in the ground somewhere out there?"

Representative Wilson of Kentocky was talking to-day about the great, but ineffectual attempt which a convention of his State has been making for the past six months to sling together a new constitution.

"They have not progressed a single step." he said. "Their work can be summed up by saying that it consists of six months of wind and nothing more. Why have they not been able to do anything." The answer is a very simple one. As the question of a new constitution is a very important one, the people sent to the convention their smartest men, Most of them are lawyers. From the very jump they got to arguing small points. Every proposition met with such objections as are characteristic of the lawyer in court. Each man knew it all. The convention could have accomplished something, if there had been more folks. something, if there had been more folks and fewer statesmen in it."

and fewer statesmen in it."

Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota sees the anti-side of the Canada reciprocity shield quite as clearly as Ben Butterworth or Senator Sherman sees the proside. In other words, Senator Pettigrew is butterly opposed to reciprocity between the United States and the Dominion. His of position is on tariff protection grounds. Speaking of this subject he said:

"I am glad the Conservative party won in the recent Canadian elections, because their success ends, for the time being at least, all prospects of reciprocity with Canada. Iam opposed to reciprocity with Canada, because it would make every Canadian farmer a competitor on even terms with American agriculturists all along the border. If reciprocity was adopted with the Dominion, England would establish factories in Canada and would enjoy all the advantages of it without sustaining any of the burdens. I would favor annexation provided Canada asked for it, but I am thoroughly convinced that the people of the United States do not want reciprocity where the balance would be so heavily against them. Reciprocity between the United States and Canada would be like a jug handle—all on one side."

The Methodist Conference held its fina ssion last mgbt before an audience that filled every seat in Hamline Church. After prayer by Rev. Dr. F. J. Wagner the After prayer by Rev. Dr. F. J. Wagner the annual distribution of conference charities and to dependent ministers was made. The annual report of the Temperance Alliance was made by Dr. Gill, who exhorted his bearers to use every endeavor in making Washington a prohibition city. On motion of Dr. Carroll of Baltimore the conference indorsed the W. C. T. U. and the non-partisan W. C. T. U. Bishop Hurst announced that the Emmenical Council would be held in Washington, at the Mctropolitan Church, next fall. Resolutions were adopted thanking Bishops Joyce and Hurst. THE HILL-WATTERSON IMBROGLIO. That Cleveland Saw the Nov

Celebrated Letter. New York, March H.—A special to the World from Keokuk, Iowa, says: "From information which came into the po session of the World representative yester day it is clear that the insidehistory of the origin and disposition of the Watterson-Hill letter has never been given to the "Early in January Colonel Watter

"Early in January Colonel Watterson came to lowa on a lecturing tour. Headelivered his celebrated lecture on Money and Morals in the cities of Grinnell. Des Moines, Witterset and here in Keckuk. With Democrats he discussed politics, and gave it as his opinion that one of the results of the late election would be the nomination of Cleveland, and he expressed a desire for Democratic harmony in the country at large, and especially in New York. With that object in view he said he had written a letter to Governor Hill, which he went on to describe minutely—a description which corresponded exactly with the letter which appeared soon after that in the columns of the Eastern press, and which Governor Hill denied ever having received. Mr. Watterson further said that after having written the letter doubts arese in his mind as to whether it would most help or hurt matters, and not being able to satisfy himself on that point, he mailed the letter to Mr. Cleveland and asked for his advice in the matter.

"Mr. Cleveland kept the letter two weeks and then returned it with the remark that he doubted the advisability of sending it.

"Mr. Watterson theremon threw it into the waste basket, from which he no doubt supposed it would never be resurrected.

"How the letter thally got into print he probably does not know, but that it was either ished out of the waste paper receptacle of the Courier-Governol office, or that a copy of it was surreptionsly made while it was in Mr. Cleveland's possession, there can be no doubt. It will be remembered that in his reply to Governor Hill's denial of the receipt of the letter Mr. Watterson now says he sent it. He declares he wrote it and beyond that his denial is evasive."

KINCAID REFUSED A CONTINUANCE.

Judge Hagner Decides That the Trial Must Begin Monday. C. Maurice Smith and Judge Jerry Wilon appeared in the Criminal Court this afternoon and appealed for the continuance of the trial of Charles E. Kıncaid, which was set for next Monday.

A telegram was read from Senator Voorhees, associate counsel in the case, who is at Hot springs, Arkansas, suffering from an attack of rheumatism, stating that his physicians had advised him that he would be in no condition to leave there for at least sixty days. days. Messrs. Smith and Wilson requested Messrs. Smith and Wilson requested that a continuance be granted until the middle of June. District Attorney Cole objected inasmuch as it was over a year since the crime had been committed, and that some of the witnesses for the Government were already on their way to Washington.

Judge Hagner held that with three such able attorneys as Judge Wilson, C. Maurice Smith and Judge Grosvenor the interests of the defendant would be carefully guarded.

GEN. PALMER ELECTED.

WILL SUCCEED FARWELL IN THE UNITED STATES SENATE.

He Gets a Majority of Two on the 15 Ballot - The Most Exciting Scenes Ever Witnessed in a Legislative As-

SPHEMBERS, R.L., March 11,-12:40 p. m.—The 154th ballot resulted as follows: Palmer, 103; Lindley, 100; Streeter, 1; Taubereck voted for Streeter. Roll bein: cerified and may be changed on the Republican side.

Palmer was declared elected amid the iost exciting scenes ever witnessed on a representative floor.

When Taubeneck voted for Streeter for drepped back in his chair and cried freely. When Cockrell's name was reached the noise was so great that the pounding of the Speaker's gavel could not be heard. At length Cockrells shouted "Palmer," and the Democrats shouted and yelled and pounded their desks in wild delight. When order had been restored the vote was proceeded with uninterruptedly until the name of Dr. Moore was reached. He rose and in a loud tone responded: "John M. Palmer." It was then that pandemonium was let loose.

The scene was indescribable. Palmer's election had been secured and the Democrats could not comain themselves.

The remainder of the roll was called with difficulty. However the shouts of "Palmer" could be heard above the din, and when Speaker Crafts voted the shouts were reversed. When Taubeneck voted for Streeter to and when Speaker Crafts voted the shouts were reversed.

Then a fight broke out on the Republican side. Representative Berry had a quarrel with one of the measiers of the steering committee on that side, and in attempting to quiet him he hit out from the shoulder several times, to the discomfort of those near him.

A lady near him brought him to his sober thoughts by a little coaxing and order was again restored.

The election of General Palmer was received with delight by Democrats in this city. Colonel isaac Hill, the old Buckeye war horse, and Assistant Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives, was probably the harpitest man to be found in the District. Ike fairly danced with joy when he heard the news. When the bulletin aurouncing the result was posted in front of Tax Currie Office Ike threw up his hat and gave a whoop. whoop, "That makes me a winner." he said.

"That makes me a winner," he said.
"The other day I was talking with my friend, the Hon. William M. Springer, and there's no better Democrat on this green earth, and we both agreed that Palmer would succeed. I told Mr. Springer that if the General got there I would have a great jollification all by myself."

"You can draw on me for your expense added he, "I will go right now to the House Sergeant-at-Arms and draw fifteen dollars and have it charged to the Hon.

William M. Springer."

Presidency. Colonel Watterson and Colonel Morrison have long been intimate friends and they have many friends in common. Mr. Carlisle is one of these. There is a Morrison circle here which this interpretation of Mr. Watterson's present activity greatly clates. Colonel Morrison, as a member of the Board of Interstate Commerce Commissioners, makes Washington his home. He lives at Willard's, and is as accessible as he would be in the little town in Illinois from which he comes. There are no frills about him.

The Southern men here are not disposed to speculate much about the situation. Democratic success means a great deal to them, and they are inclined to deprecate any agitation that might, even in the slightest degree, beeloud the prospect.
